What is France's largest lithium project?

One of the country's largest lithium projects, EMILI, is being developed by French multinational Imerys. The project in Beauvoir, central France, where lithium was first detected in the 1960s, hopes to produce enough lithium per year, over 25 years, to power 700,000 EVs.

Why are the EU and France lurching towards lithium?

The EU's and France's lurch towards lithium is, of course, not just intended to support, and profit, from the energy transition but to buffer an overreliance – and a dominance of future industry – by China, which the US recently accused of “flooding” the market to drive out rivals.
